According to the Associated Press, they are turning their guns from the president of Bashar al-Assad, and his allies, to the prime minister of the Turkish president. Al-Ikharaya TV, a Saudi-backed satellite channel, reported on Tuesday, that Damascus has blocked a rebel offensive that was to take place on Wednesday. The channel's sources say that rebel groups have been tasked with carrying out the policy of "declaring ceasefire and then moving to discuss with the Syrian regime." The Syrian regime, the news service reports, say that they "accepted to halt the chemical attack on Khan Sheikhou" and "confirm to carry out the agreements reached by [United Nations] Syria envoy Staffan de Mistura." The US, like the regime, has not commented on the ceasefire
